

HEAL SICK CHILDREN

In Houston, across the nation and around the world, families know they can rely on Texas Children's Hospital for exceptional medical care. They know they can turn to this world-renowned hospital for innovations in research, to pioneer discoveries in childhood diseases, and to find the best pediatric physicians to safeguard the health of their children. At Texas Children's Hospital, the objective is simple: HEAL SICK CHILDREN.

Through the Heal Sick Children campaign, the hospital is raising $400 million to support the areas they believe are essential to fulfilling its purpose. With your philanthropic investment in Texas Children's, you can help provide critical new space and funding for the following initiatives:

- Jan and Dan Duncan Neurological Research Institute - a one-of-a-kind pediatric neurological research institute to accelerate the search for answers to some of the most devastating childhood diseases
- Texas Children's Hospital Maternity Center - a comprehensive maternity center to help develop new therapies and better care for expecting mothers to give new life every chance to thrive
- West Campus - a new location to help grow Texas Children's facilities in the Greater Houston community and reach an ever-expanding population of children

By contributing to the Heal Sick Children campaign, you can help provide new possibilities for disadvantaged families to access medical care and help us attract, and keep, truly world-class medical professionals—those who will not only lead this campaign's efforts, but who will also mentor and guide the next generation.
